Corrections and Juvenile Justice
Regarding SB 491 (Proponent)
Bob Stuart, Executive Officer
Kansas Bureau of Investigation
March 12, 2024

Chairman Owens and Members of the Committee:

The Kansas Bureau of Investigation (KBI) supports SB 491, which will combine and standardize language that must be cited in state statute to allow a non-criminal justice agency to receive national criminal history record information.

Background:

In 1978, the KBI was statutorily required the responsibility of maintaining the state's criminal history records through K.S.A. 22-4705. Per K.S.A. 21-2501, fingerprint and palm prints are to be taken by local law enforcement agencies if a person is wanted for the commission of a felony or a class A or B misdemeanor or assault as defined in K.S.A. 21-3408. Those fingerprint and palm prints are to be provided to and maintained by the KBI. The KBI shall forward one set of the fingerprints to the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

The KBI offers criminal history record checks to both criminal justice and non-criminal justice entities. Presently, there are fifty-five (55) state statutes that authorize fingerprint based criminal history record checks for non-criminal justice entities. There are four (4) state statutes that authorize fingerprint based criminal history record checks for criminal justice entities. There are eighteen (18) state statutes that authorize name based criminal history record checks for non-criminal justice entities. Some examples of non-criminal justice entities who are authorized to receive fingerprint based criminal history record checks are: State Bank Commissioner, Kansas Department of Aging and Disability Services (KDADS), Kansas Real Estate Commission, State Board of Nursing, Department of Education, Kansas Department of Health and Environment, and Kansas Department of Children and Families (DCF). Many of these entities request criminal history record checks on applicants, employees, and volunteers who work in positions of trust and those working with vulnerable populations such as children, the elderly, and disabled individuals.

When a criminal history record check is requested the KBI searches not only the state criminal history record repository, but also the national criminal history repository, which is maintained by the FBI. The national repository includes arrests and convictions of crimes committed in Kansas as well as all other states and US territories.

Current Issue:

As such, the FBI has stringent rules regarding specific language that must be cited in state statute to allow a non-criminal justice agency to receive national criminal history record information. Following each legislative session, the KBI forwards the newly passed bills that include civil criminal history checks to the FBI for their approval. The FBI review process currently takes over a year to complete. Unfortunately, the KBI is often advised that the language in the bill does not meet the requirements of the FBI to permit national record checks. The bill language must then subsequently be amended the following legislative session to become compliant with FBI standards.

Specifically speaking, one of the concerns of the FBI was the lack of “definition” for individuals or positions for whom fingerprint record checks would be performed. SB 491 attempts to provide more specific definitions of those individuals, as needed by the FBI.

Additionally, SB 49 changes the structure of the civil background check statutes to create a single statute, which defines the required language necessary for conducting a civil fingerprint background check, while updating the language in approximately seventy-five (75) different statutes that refer to civil criminal history record checks.

This legislative change proposed by the KBI will be extremely important in preventing the State of Kansas from being prohibited in the future from conducting national fingerprint criminal history record checks and providing that information to our non-criminal justice partners. State and national criminal history record checks are vital to ensuring the safety of population and the security of our finances.

For further delineation of the various statutory requirements for non-criminal justice entities to receive civil fingerprint background checks, the following information has been provided:
