A STRIKE
Iron Workers on the State House Want Higher Wages.
 The iron workers on the dome of the state house in the employ of C. L. Lane have struck. The men demand that they shall be paid from $22.50 to $27.50 a day instead of from $15.00 to $20.00 a day. Labor unions in day more than $2.00 and the strike will probably continue for some time.
 The workers are about twelve in number and being so no union, but are confident of success. They base their claim to higher wages on the great danger to life in working so high from the ground and also on the fact that the price of food products has greatly advanced.
